

Create your Own Treehouse

If you had a Treehouse, what would you have in it? Here's a basic tree drawing to start you off. You can add as many branches and floors as you like. You could write some labels for the things in your treehouse - we've created a couple of blank ones for you.

This fun activity encourages imagination. Can everyone in your family add an idea, or create their own treehouses? Reading together and talking about books is a great way to get your children reading.

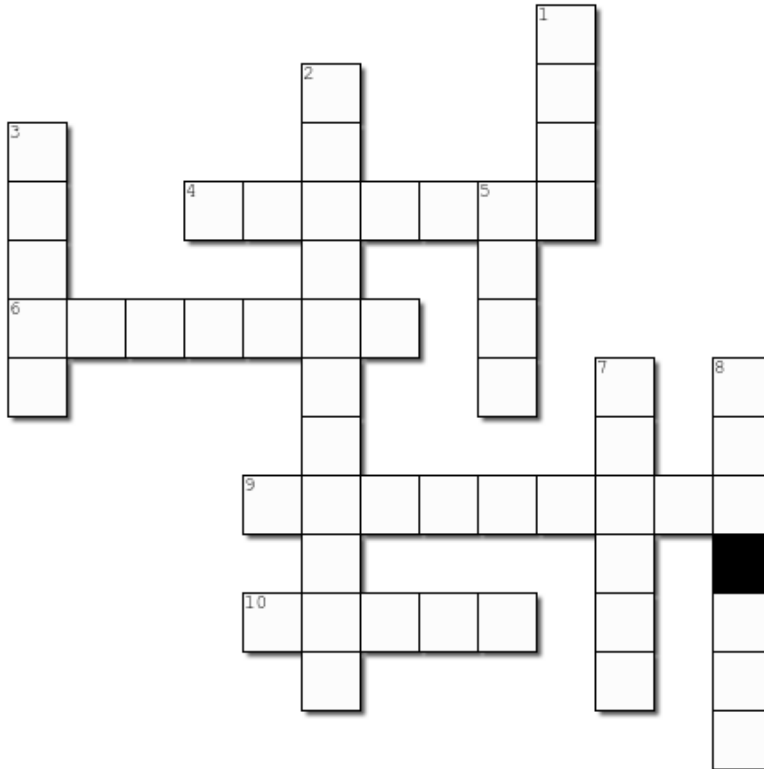

Amazing Animals Crossword

We hope you're enjoying your Amazing Animals book. When you've enjoyed all the crazy facts for a bit, why not have a go at this crossword puzzle?

All the answers are in the book, but you'll need to do a bit of detective work! To help you, every clue tells you the section the answer can be found in. All the sections are in the contents list on p4–5. If you get stuck, ask a family member for some help. The answers will be emailed out too. This fun activity will encourage you to use tables of contents and visual clues to find information.

Why not have a go at the origami frog on p172? There's a sheet of green paper in the book!
